

School of Media and Strategic Communications
Oklahoma State University

Oklahoma State University
Assistant Professor of Strategic Communication
9-month Tenure-Track position
Start Date: Fall 2011

The School of Media and Strategic Communications invites applications for a nine-month tenure-track position at the level of Assistant Professor in its new strategic communication program, which is anticipated to start in fall 2011. The successful candidate must be conversant with aspects of strategic communication and should be able to teach integrated strategic communication campaigns. The successful candidate will be enthusiastic about developing scholarship and teaching in strategic communication and should be willing to work in an experimental and developing environment. This is an exciting time for the OSU School of Media and Strategic Communications with many changes taking place in program offerings and curriculum design. As a result, the successful candidate will be encouraged to propose courses or content that will enhance the new strategic communication program at both undergraduate and graduate level. Additionally, the candidate will be expected to supervise masters' theses and serve on some departmental, college or university committees.

Application Requirements

A Ph.D. degree in an appropriate field is required. The applicant should be able to teach a wide spectrum of courses in the school, including strategic writing, advertising, public relations, strategic communication campaigns and research at both the bachelor's and master's levels. Knowledge of and experience with the new media environment and global outreach is a plus. Candidates with an interest in critical research, a strong multicultural background or international experience also are encouraged to apply. An active agenda of scholarly research and publication is required. Candidates should have professional experience in an appropriate area.

About the School of Media and Strategic Communications

The School of Media and Strategic Communications at Oklahoma State University is nationally recognized for producing outstanding practitioners in all mass communication areas and has been continuously accredited by AEJMC since the 1940s. It is the largest program in the College of Arts & Sciences, the largest college at OSU. This appointment is part of a process to strengthen the research and scholarly abilities of the school, which will ultimately lead to a new doctoral program. Faculty represent a wide variety of research interests and provides a nurturing environment for new faculty.

About Oklahoma State University

OSU is a research oriented, land grant institution dedicated to the advancement and dissemination of knowledge central to a liberal education for all students. It has more than 22,000 students on three campuses and more than 1,500 faculty.

Application Procedure

Submit application letter, curriculum vitae, transcripts and names, addresses and telephone numbers of three references to Chair, Strategic Communication Search Committee, School of Media and Strategic Communications, Oklahoma State University, 206 Paul Miller Bldg., Stillwater, OK 74074-4053. Review of applicants will begin on January 20, 2011 and will continue until the position is filled.

For more information about this position, you are welcome to e-mail the director of the school, Dr. Derina Holtzhausen, at derina.holtzhausen@okstate.edu.

OSU is an AA/EEO/E-Verify employer committed to diversity. OSU-Stillwater is a tobacco-free campus.